

What does workplace health and safety mean to you?

In recognition of Connecticut's Young Worker Health and Safety Month in May 2014, the Connecticut Young Worker Health and Safety Team is pleased to announce a statewide contest for teens to create a drawing that demonstrates health and safety practices that can help teens and other workers avoid hazards in their workplaces.

Eligible students must be an enrolled as a freshman or sophomore in High School, Vocational Technical School, or Home Schooled to submit a drawing. Drawings must be submitted unfolded on standard white paper sized 8 ½" by 11" and by June 30, 2014

Contestants' drawings will be judged by team members on the safety message, content, design, and creativity. Each of the 12 winners will receive a $125 prize and will have their drawings, school and name featured in a 2015 calendar to promote young worker health and safety awareness in Connecticut. Calendars will be distributed to teens, teachers, parents, employers, trades, unions and other health and safety professionals.
